

TEEN WEEKEND MEAL PROGRAM

The Regional Food Bank of Northeastern New York's Teen Weekend Meal Program at Ichabod Crane High School

Did you know that despite the fact that preteens and teens comprise a large number of the 12 million U.S. children without consistent access to the food needed to live a healthy and active life, few programs are designed to meet their needs?

Any donation you make is tax deductible.
100% of donations go towards food for the program.

Program Goals and Mission

The Teen Weekend Meal Program is a food assistance program that meets the unique needs of teens struggling with hunger and food insecurity during the academic year.

Together, the Regional Food Bank and Ichabod Crane High School will provide weekend bags of food to students who face chronic hunger during the academic year, providing a consistent and critical support to these students and their families.

How You Can Help

The average cost for a student to participate in the Teen Weekend Meal Program is $9.26 per week, or $278.00 per year for 30 weeks of meals. Ichabod Crane High School is seeking local donations to help provide students with these critical meals. Your support will help teens in your community receive the food they need to live an active and healthy life.

How to Donate

Please support Ichabod Crane High School's program by sending donations to the Regional Food Bank Of NENY. Please note on the donation that you'd like the funds to go directly to "Ichabod Crane High School TWMP" #1895T.

Yes, I will support the Regional Food Bank's Teen Weekend Meal Program at Ichabod Crane High School and help provide nutritious meals to teens over the weekend.
