Technology in the Classroom

If a teacher leaves plans which include the use of technology or the overhead projector, you will need to do the following:

Log in to the computer:

- Power on the computer and monitor.
- Login to the teacher computer using your Ichabod Crane ID and Password.
- If you have not logged on to this computer before, it may take a few minutes to load your profile.
- Open Google Chrome and login to your Ichabod Crane Google account.

Using the Overhead Projector and Remote

On/Off: Press the on/off button once to turn the projector on and twice to turn the projector off.

Source Search: If there is a blue screen displayed on the white board, click source search. This will instruct the computer to look for any source which should be projecting on the screen. You may need to press this button multiple times as the computer scans each input source.

A/V Mute: Pressing this button will temporarily stop projection and mute sound.

Volume: If you are playing a video and have difficulty hearing the sound, try adjusting the volume on the remote.

Freeze: This function will keep the projected image “frozen” on the screen and will not change until the freeze button is pressed again.

Technology Troubleshooting

TIPS, TRICKS, AND IDEAS TO HELP YOU

Remember! Always follow any instructions from the classroom teacher as closely as possible. For the times when a student (or the class!) needs something extra to do, you can prepare yourself by having your own substitute survival kit ready to go when you are!

- Check out these great websites for ideas and resources to help you put together your own ‘Bag of Tricks’!

- 6 Quick Lesson Ideas for Substitute Teachers

Here are 6 quick lesson ideas that you might use for your next substitute teacher engagement. Just keep them in a tote bag and use them where necessary.

1. Create puzzles.

Word search, crossword, and other printable word games are great when you need something to use in the classroom. Simply print off a bunch of different puzzles and carry them with you when you are substituting.

2. Brick Brainstorm.

Come up with a lesson subject, such as electricity, technology, etc. Prepare bricks by using red construction paper. Give each student a brick. Now pose a question to the class, such as “What would you have done differently, if you invented the light bulb?” Let students write their responses on their brick. Then have students come up with their brick and explain their answer. Tape the brick to a wall, and as each child comes up, keep adding to make an entire brick wall.

3. Story Starters.

Tell the students what the lesson is about, and then write a story starter on the whiteboard such as for a rainforest theme, “One day I was walking through the forest in Savanna, when I heard...” Now let another volunteer come up and add a sentence to the story. If you do not have time to finish the story before class ends, make it a homework assignment for the students to finish the story and bring it back the next day to give to their teacher.

4. Getting to Know You.

Have students write an essay about themselves. Ask them to write the answers to these questions (and come up with others): “If you won a million dollars, what would you do with it? If you could be anything in the world, what would you choose? What is the best vacation you ever had?”

5. Lead a group discussion.

If your class seems to be under control, leading a discussion is a great way to talk about a lesson. Examples of discussion questions might include: “If there weren’t such things as rules, what would the world be like? What do you think is the worst thing about school? How about the best?” Who are some of your heroes? What makes them so great?”

6. Riddles.

Use riddles that stretch the brain to think hard. Of course, make them grade-appropriate, but somewhat challenging. For instance ask them: “What gets wet the more you dry with it? The owner of a hotel wants the room doors numbered in order. There are 100 rooms. You must go out and buy the numbers to hang on all the doors. How many of each digit, 0 thru 9, will you need to buy?”
