

High School Riders of the Month

DECEMBER 2023

IMANI GEORGE

Imani is a hardworking student who is always volunteering in class and helping others. She takes her work seriously and is constantly pushing herself to do better.

MAEVE BRASWELL

Maeve is an excellent student, a leader among her peers, always willing to help someone in need, and is a well-respected student athlete.

SHYANN HEBERT

Shyann has shown a lot of growth this year. She is working hard in class and in track. On top of that, she has been seen on numerous occasions showing kindness and compassion to others. For example, when Mr. Ogden brought in a pallet full of 50-lb boxes of clay, Shyann was the first student to jump up and offer to help him as he struggled to get the rolling cart into the classroom. She also offered to offload all of the boxes in an effort to help him.

EMMA MCKAY

Emma is a student who is a quiet but important presence in my class. She took the initiative to pass out books without being asked, she is diligent with her work, and she is always fully present in whatever we are doing in class.

ALLISON FLINT

Allison is an excellent student. She is kind to her classmates and peers. She listens well to others and is willing to share her thoughts with the class when called upon.

CHRISTIAN ABRAMS

Christian has been really awesome to have in anatomy. He always has a positive attitude and is the first to try even when he is uncertain. Recently, we have started dissections and it was wonderful to watch him take on a leadership role during clean up procedures. He was kind to his peers throughout the process, but also dedicated to ensuring all protocol was followed, staying after his classmates had left to ensure I was happy with their work. His attitude and initiative are amazing!

REESE SLADE

Reese is always ready, willing, and able to engage in any class conversation, debate, or activity. She is always willing to share her thoughts and ideas and she listens well to her classmates.

NOELLE NOLAN

Noelle is a gracious and diligent student. She puts forth incredible effort into her schoolwork regardless of the type of assignment, as evidenced by her status as a January graduate with honors.

Congrats!
